Dear David:

Every campaign has two espec The first comes at the beginning public support for an idea has no supporters are necessarily leader The second weak moment comes late moving, and people get more attra publicity and attention than to essential nuts and bolts of a car

In the history of the campa Utility Board in Wisconsin, you up for the bill at its weakest mo needed to be done. In the last for example, your generosity, as well as that of your aide Dan Kurd was absolutely essential.

Congratulations on your far-sighted, committed and unselfish support of a bill that embodies the most creative consumer idea of the last generation.

As you know, the Wisconsin CUB is the first in the nation. That means that citizens and legislators from all over the country will be watching its progress closely. I am convinced that if it continues to receive support like that you gave it over the past few years, it will not fail to fulfill its potential. Your victory for the people of Wisconsin will then become a victory for people all over the country.

Sincerely,

Ralph Nader

Dear Dan:

Thank you very much for helping to host the brunch at Dick Wagner's home on August 8, and especially for your help with the food.

I appreciate the time and effort you and others put into making the event such a success.

Your continuing support is vital to my campaign efforts, and I am glad to have your help.

Spring? Do you think it's here? One sure sign in my garden is the blooming of the Siberian irises. Now I know our winters are not as harsh as Siberia, but these irises are one of the joys of late Spring anywhere. Last fall I transplanted some clumps, so I hope this year's display will be especially good. Any of my friends and neighbors who would like to find out are welcome to come and see. On the morning of MAY 20, I will be at home at 739 Jenifer Street, in the garden. If you are on your way to the Farmer's Market on the Square, or out running errands, or just need an excuse to stop and smell the flowers, come visit the Siberians and rejoice the Winter is gone. Good strong coffee (Dane County Norwegian style) and pastries from the kitchen will permit a bit of refreshment. Come as early as 7 am but no later than 11 am. In case of rain I'll cut armfuls for the house so come anyway. No advance response needed and all are welcome.
